PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE SIXTY-SIXTH CONGRESS THIRD SESSION.

SENATE.

MONDAY, December 6, 1920.

The first Monday of December being the day prescribed by the Constitution of the United States for the annual meeting of Congress, the third session of the Sixty-sixth Congress commenced this day.

The Senate assembled in its Chamber at the Capitol.

The VICE PRESIDENT (THOMAS R. MARSHALL, of Indiana) called the Senate to order at 12 o'clock meridian.

The Chaplain, Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, at the beginning of every great spiritual enterprise we turn instinctively to Thee, for Thy guidance alone is sufficient for us. When we face the tremendous responsibilities of this hour and office we can hope to measure up to them only as Thou dost give us Thy blessing, as Thou dost direct our steps. Grant such measure of grace to Thy servants in this honorable Senate as that, with devotion to the ultimate principles of truth Thou hast revealed to us these principles in Thy Holy Word, they may faithfully and well perform the duties that are upon them and meet the responsibilities that have come to them.

Forgive our sins and fit us for the larger service of life. For Christ's sake. Amen.

ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT-ELECT HARDING.

Mr. LODGE. Mr. President, before making a motion to adjourn I can not refrain from calling attention to the fact that this is a memorable occasion. For the first time in the history of the country a Member of this body has been elected President of the United States. He is here with us to-day, still a Senator, and I venture to suggest that he may be recognized by the Chair to speak informally to the Senate before he leaves his service here. [Great applause on the floor and in the galleries.]

Mr. HARDING was escorted to the Vice President's desk by the Vice President, and he addressed the Senate as follows:

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I am grateful for this greeting on the part of the membership of this body. I am the more pleased that it affords me an opportunity to say to you rather informally some of the things in my heart which I could utter probably in no other way. I am conscious of the fact that I am here to-day under somewhat unusual circumstances, and I am not unmindful that there is a delicacy about my position which one can not escape except through some form of self-effacement which does not seem quite possible.

No Member of this body could be more reluctant to leave it than am I. I may say to the Senate that I came here with very high respect for this body, and I am leaving it with greater respect than that with which I came. If one could always direct his own political fortunes to his liking, I should have preferred my membership here to any office a citizen may hold in this Republic or elsewhere in the world. I like the freedom, the association, the patriotic sense of responsibility which abides here. I am conscious of the great place which Congress holds in this Government under our Constitution, and from my service here I am particularly sensible to the obligations of the Senate. When my responsibilities begin in the executive capacity I shall be as mindful of the Senate's responsibilities as I have been jealous for them as a Member, but I mean at the same time to be just as insistent about the responsibilities of the Executive. Our governmental good fortune does not lie in any surrender at either end of the Avenue, but in the coordination and cooperation which becomes the two in a great and truly representative popular government.

This brings me to the thought particularly in my mind. Something has been said about the senatorial oligarchy. Of course, everyone here knows that to be a bit of highly imaginative and harmless fiction. But I do recognize how essential is the helpfulness of Congress, and particularly of the Senate, in the making of a successful national administration. I want to express to-day the wish of a colleague for the confidence and the cooperation of the Members of this body in the four years which begin next March 4. I do not limit this sincere request to one side of the aisle. One can not promise agreement in all things with an opposite party which is sometimes insistently wrong; but we may find common ground in the spirit of service; and I hope, sirs, for that agreeable and courteous and oftentimes helpful relationship with the opposite side which has added to the delights of fellow service during the past six years.

We are facing no easy task. We have our full part in the readjustment of human affairs after the world tumult. We have our tasks at home; we have our part in the inevitable work of the civilized world. I am sure that the necessity of wise solution will inspire us to work together, to take common counsel, to be tolerant of one another, and to give the best which is in all of us to attain the ends which become our Republic at home and will maintain its high place among the nations of the earth.

With propriety I can not venture upon any suggestions now, even though I am speaking as a Member of this body. Three months of the present administration remain, and I would have House and Senate join cordially in making them fruitful rather than wasted months. There is so much to be done and we have already had so much of delay that I should like unanimous recognition that there are no party ends to serve, but precious days are calling for service to our common country.

I can not resist, Mr. President and Senators, the repetition of my regret that my association on this floor and in committee rooms is ending to-day. It has been a happy and a proud experience. Let me express the hope to one and all that though there comes a change in official relationship, it will not interrupt our cooperation nor deprive us of the personal fellowship which I have found to be a great compensation for the sacrifices of conscientious public service. [Applause.]

Mr. LODGE. I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 12 o'clock and 25 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Tuesday, December 7, 1920, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, December 6, 1920.

This being the day fixed by the Constitution of the United States for the annual meeting of the Congress, the House of Representatives of the Sixty-sixth Congress met in its Hall at 12 o'clock noon for its third session, and was called to order by the Speaker, Hon. FREDERICK H. GILLET, a Representative from the State of Massachusetts.

The Chaplain, Rev. Henry N. Couden, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Eternal Spirit, our Heavenly Father, infinite in Thine attributes, whose judgments are true and righteous altogether, reveal unto us more clearly Thy purposes and give us the desire, the zeal, the courage to conform our ways to Thine. Continue Thy favors unto us as a people and inspire those in authority with clear vision, high ideals, noble endeavors, that the concurrent branches of government may work together in harmony and in unison with Thee; that we may continue an example to all the world for true, just and equitable government. And grant that the whole family of mankind under Thy divine influence may become indeed citizens of Thy kingdom; that Thy will may be done in earth as it is in Heaven, to the glory and honor of Thy holy name, and the eternal good of mankind.

Since we last met, our Father in Heaven, two strong, pure and efficient Members of this House have passed over the Great Divide leaving the world the poorer for their going. Bless we pray Thee those that knew and loved them, especially those bound to them by the ties of kinship, with the eternal hope of the immortality of the soul, revealed in Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Mr. SNELL. I ask unanimous consent that Mr. HAMILTON FISH, Jr., Representative elect from the twenty-sixth congressional district of New York, may take the oath of office at this time. He has not received his certificate, but he was elected by about 22,000 majority and there is no contest.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, is this a Republican Member elect?

Mr. SNELL. Yes.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. How did he come to have so small a majority as 22,000? [Laughter.]

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. WOODS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, Representative elect RORER A. JAMES, of the fifth district of Virginia, whose certificate is in the hands of the Clerk, is in the Hall, and I ask that he be allowed to take the oath of office.

The SPEAKER. Those Members elect whose certificates are present do not need unanimous consent. They will present themselves.
